

Abstract

The invention relates to a clamping device (1a) for a traction mechanism (2a). The clamping device (1a) is connected via a spring means (11a) to an actuating lever (10a) which can be adjusted between two end positions. The actuating lever (10a) can be adjusted automatically by means of an actuator (18) in conjunction with a controller (20).

Figure 1